

As the winter solstice nears it is time to celebrate the season

Join me in the studio over the next two weekends for the Holiday Countryside Artisans Studio Tour, December 2, 3, 4 and 9, 10 and 11.

New art will bring a bit of Sugarloaf home with you.

There are new color pencil drawings and paintings of our beautiful Agricultural Reserve landscape. Inspiration surrounds me as colors in the mountain and sky change throughout the day this time of year.

'Just Past Sunset, Sugarloaf Mountain' is an oil painting that I painted over many months in the last couple of years.

It is a large painting that captures the beautiful colors in the sky, just past sunset. I had fun with my palette knife in this painting.

Linen Lavender Sachets

Are a gift for someone who wants to sweeten their closet or drawer. Hand-stamped with "Je Taime" and a butterfly.

Colorful Leaf Prints

My Leaf Rubbings are a memory of a walk along my favorite rustic road or on Sugarloaf Mountain. Rich Fall color abounds in the leaves rustling along the walk.

Sketchbook Pages

Lots of fun in my sketchbook this summer and fall, drawing and painting fruits and veggies from the garden and woodland walks. Prints of favorites are framed and hanging in the studio.

Sugarloaf Landscapes

Yes I am drawn to this mountain on the horizon. Oil paintings and drawings of this landscapes capture the beauty of our mountain set in the Agricultural Reserve.
